In 1892 a charter was secured by General Isaac J. Wistar, of Philadelphia, from and under the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, conferring perpetual incorporation, with the right of perpetual succession and a corporate seal, upon a corporation to be called "The Wistar institute of anatomy and biology." The museum, commonly known for many years as the Wistar or Wistar and Horner museum, and a plot of ground, were presented by the University of Pennsylvania to the Wistar institute ... The institute was established as a research museum to serve all institutions alike in the encouragement of original scientific research in anatomy and biology. Its laboratories and collections are open under suitable regulations to investigators from all institutions, and to private individuals, who are capable of making proper use of its advantages ... By special arrangement ... graduate students of the University of Pennsylvania may enjoy the advantages of the institute's research laboratories and take research work in connection with the degree of the University ... Wit and mirth ... 1719-20. (Card 9)

The first edition, 4 v., 1699 (i. e. 1698)-1706, was assembled and published by Henry Playford, who issued a 2d edition of v. 1 in 1706. A 4-volume edition, with additional songs, was published in 1707 by John Young, who subsequently issued new editions of v. 1-4, and brought out a 5th vol. The present edition is the only edition edited by D'Urfey, whose songs (with one by Dryden: "Chloe found Amyntas [ying]") make up the first 2 vols. As the added l-p. of v. 1 indicates it was intended to issue the work in 5 vols. There is another issue (the 1st) of the present edition, in 5 vols. with title and running title: Songs complete, pleasant and divertive. of Day, Cyrus L. Pills to purge melancholy. Reprinted from the Review of English studies, vol. viii, no. 30, 1922.

Melodies unaccompanied. Many of the settings are by John Blow, Henry Purcell and other well-known composers of the period.

Witchcraft detected & prevented; or, The school of black art newly opened. The greater part of this highly curious little volume is selected from the ancient and scarce works of the principal writers on these subjects, particularly from Scott's Discovery of witchcraft, the book which supplied Shakespeare with his witch and wizard lore. It will also contain a variety of the most approved charms in magic; receipts in medicine, natural philosophy, and chemistry, &c. By a member of the school of black art, Italy ... Peterhead, P. Buchan, 1823.

xiii, 206 p. 21, 207-207 p. 1. 1. 200-440 p. front. 22^{cm}. (Half-title: Cornell studies in English ... vol. xvii)

A collection of drolls and plays originally published in two parts, pt. 1 by Henry Marsh in 1662 (3d ed. published by Francis Kirkman in 1673) and pt. 2 by Francis Kirkman in 1673. Many of the pieces are taken from well known plays by Shakespeare and others. Five of the twenty-seven drolls in pt. 1 were previously issued in a small volume entitled Actones and Dana, by Robert Cox. Kirkman, the probable compiler, in his preface to pt. 2, called Robert Cox "not only the principal actor, but also the contriver and author" of most of the drolls. This reprint is based on the original editions, with reproductions of original title-pages, of 1st ed.

Wittels, Fritz, 1880-

An end to poverty, by Fritz Wittels, translated from the German by Eden and Cedar Paul. London, G. Allen & Unwin, Ltd., 1925.

223, (1) p. 19^{cm}.
A translation of the author's Die vernichtung der arm, setting forth a scheme for making an end to poverty by universal civil service in a sub-sistence or minimum army. In this work the author expounds the theories of Joseph Popper ("Popper-Lynkers"), particularly those emphasized in Popper's Die allgemeine mährlichkeit als lösung der sozialen frage. cf. Trans-lator's pref.

Wolcott, Roger, 1679-1767.

Poetical meditations, being the improvement of some vacant hours, by Roger Wolcott, esq; with a preface by the Reverend Mr. Bulkley of Colchester. New-London, Printed and sold by T. Green, 1725.

2 l. 1. 1. 78 p. 1 l. 221". Imperfect: half-side, p. 11/12, 77/78 in facsimile.

The long, rambling preface deals mainly with the Indians' right to the land.

The principal poem (p. 19-78) is entitled: A brief account of the agency of the Honorable John Winthrop, esq; in the court of King Charles the Second, anno Dom. 1662. When he obtained for the Colony of Connecticut His Majesty's gracious charter.

Wollaston, William, 1660-1724.

The religion of nature delineated ... (Card 2)

The manuscript notes on fly leaves of this copy, and some bibliographies, state that Franklin was employed as a compositor on this edition. This (the second) edition was published before the author's death (October 26th, 1724, and before Franklin's employment at Palmer's after his arrival in London (November 24th, 1724). Franklin's reference in his autobiography ("At Palmer's I was employed in composing for the second edition of Wollaston's Religion of nature") has therefore reference to the edition of 1722, actually the third; the issue privately printed in 1722 was apparently unknown to Franklin or not regarded by him as an edition. cf. The collection of Franklin imprints of the Curtis publishing company, comp. by W. J. Campbell, Philadelphia, 1918, p. 40.
